HPE NonStop Education

Abstract

If you are curious about what HPE Education has been up to lately, we invite you to join this session. We'll show you which new courses are available and which courses we've updated. We would also like to share with you our future plans and which ideas we play with. Last, but not least we want to share with you our new "NonStop Professional" program.

Continuous was founded in 2007 and stems from his passion for HPE NonStop Servers and his extensive involvement with training and education as an HPE employee. Today, Continuous is the designated HPE supplier for NonStop Education in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and North, South and Middle American regions. Continuous is a key business partner for HPE and maintains a very close relationship with the HPE NonStop Enterprise Divisions engineers, product management and development teams to ensure up to the minute knowledge of NonStop products and solutions.

With his top-shelf international team of NonStop professionals, Ron delivers all HPE NonStop training courses in the regions and manages the highly modern and superior Virtual NonStop LAB with over 10 NonStop Servers and as well as Utimaco products and other peripherals.

Ron may have moved more into the management role these days, but he is still tightly involved in HPE NonStop science, especially modern and new technologies and solutions.

To make a clearer difference between the Professional Services and the Education Services the company delivers, Ron decided to launch the NonStop Academy in 2018.
